Welcome to Maryland

Maryland basketball is as imposing as Cole Field House. Its pillars reach to a sky of NCAA Tournaments, Final Four appearances, and more Atlantic Coast Conference Championships than any school. Through its doors have walked Olympic Gold Medalist Vicky Bullett, 23 ACC All-Tournament competitors wearing Terrapin colors, and six MVPs of the league tournament. There have been 11 Terps selected to play in the Olympic Sports Festivals, and in addition to three U.S. Olympians, Terps have played for the Finnish and Yugoslavian Olympic Teams.

Its coaches—Chris Weller, Boe Pearman and Tara Heiss—supply the support of experience for those wishing to play in the most successful program in the Northeast. Weller is without peer in the Atlantic Coast Conference, having won more conference tournaments than any coach (eight). Pearman was herself All-ACC as a Terrapin, and for six seasons she has shared in Terrapin success as assistant coach. Heiss is new to the coaching staff as a fulltime mentor, but for years she has volunteered to help Maryland achieve its success in a variety of roles, most recently as volunteer assistant. She was a U.S. Olympic Team selection at Maryland, a member of the U.S. Pan-American team, U.S. Select Team and World University Games team.

Supporting on-court success are present Terrapins who have achieved regional and national honors. Dafne Lee and Jessie Hicks were in Minneapolis over the summer playing in the U.S. Olympic Festival, with Lee moving on to play for the U.S. Junior team. Estelle Christy was also chosen to play in the Olympic Festival. Carla Holmes was Rookie of the Year in the ACC and 1989 All-Tournament, and the just graduated Christy Winters kept Terp ACC Tournament Tradition alive by being selected 1990 All-Tournament.

The Terrapins play in the shadow of this nation's most famous city of monuments, Washington, D.C., and near the waterfronts of Baltimore's Inner Harbor and Annapolis. There are many pillars of success at Maryland, almost as many as the columns that fill the campus's Georgian architecture. It's Monumental Basketball at Maryland.

Before your visit

Contact the Sports Information Office for press credentials. Chuck Walsh is in charge of game press passes; he requires that you call at least three days before a game. Chuck will screen requests to ensure a working press row. If you want to take pictures, please make your request on letterhead at least one week before the game.

Requests for interviews with student-athletes must be made through the Sports Information Office. Chuck and the group need 24 hours advance notice to arrange an interview, which is best accomplished before or after practice. Although telephone numbers of student-athletes will not be published by the Sports Information Office, interviews can be conducted by phone upon request. All interviews are to be arranged through sports information.

Coach Chris Weller can be contacted through sports information for interviews. Coach Weller is available before or after open practices.

Terrapin Game Day

Working press and photo credentials will be mailed when possible by Chuck or Secretary Dee Stough. Credentials that can't make it through Postal Service on time are available at the rear entrance of Cole Field House, opposite Byrd Stadium.

Cole press row is located on the floor for women's games; radio stations are seated courtside. Photo boxes are marked at each end of the basketball floor; photographers are asked not to shoot during play outside these areas.

Post Game

Complete statistics are distributed after the game, including play-by-play books. The FAX machine, a relentlessly efficient box of electronic mysteries, is available to transmit copy or box scores after the game.

Interviews for Maryland coaches and student-athletes will be held after the game in the basketball interview area, located off the tunnel at the north end of Cole Field House.

A wrap-up of all Maryland games is on the Terphone (301) 314-TERP.

University President

William E. Kirwan

After more than 25 years of service as a professor and administrator at the University of Maryland at College Park, Dr. William E. Kirwan was appointed president on February 1, 1989.

Dr. Kirwan has played a major role in determining the direction of Maryland as it rises to become one of the nation's best public universities. Under his leadership, it recently developed a $150 million, five-year plan to enhance college Park.

Dr. Kirwan joined the university in 1964 as an assistant professor of mathematics. He rose steadily through the faculty ranks as associate professor (1968-1972), professor (1972-present), and chair of the Department of Mathematics (1977-1981).

In 1981, he was appointed vice chancellor for academic affairs, College Park's chief academic post. From August to November 1982, Dr. Kirwan served as acting chancellor, returning to his position as vice chancellor when Dr. John Slaughter was appointed chancellor of College Park. As vice chancellor, Dr. Kirwan raised admission standards, increased the number of merit scholarships and graduate fellowships, and established an academic planning process.

Dr. Kirwan is a member of numerous honorary and professional societies, including Phi Beta Kappa, the American Mathematical Society, and the Mathematical Association of America. He is the co-editor of the book "Advances in Complex Analysis", and the author of many published articles on mathematical research. He served as the editor of the Proceedings of the American Mathematical Society from 1977 to 1985. Currently, he chairs the Mathematical Sciences in the Year 2000 Committee, a task force created by the National Research Council to improve mathematics education at the nation's colleges and universities during the next decade.

Born in Louisville, Kentucky on April 14, 1938, Dr. Kirwan received a bachelor's degree in mathematics from the University of Kentucky in 1960. He holds master's (1962) and Ph.D. (1964) degrees in mathematics from Rutgers University.

Dr. Kirwan and his wife, Patricia, have a son who received his bachelor's and master's degrees in architecture from College Park, and a daughter who currently is a student at the university.

ANDY GEIGER

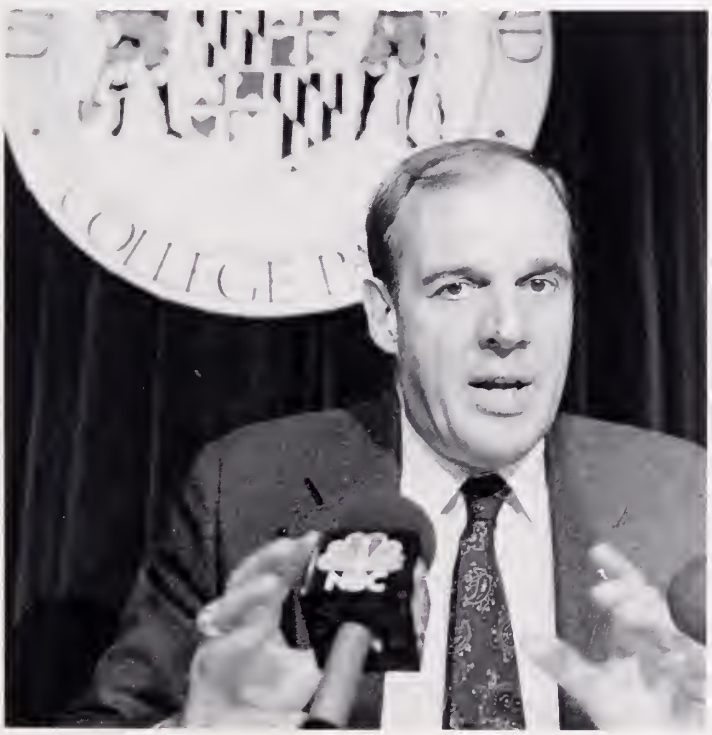
Ferdinand A. (Andy) Geiger, whose tenure as Athletic Director at Stanford University elevated him to the top rank of athletic administrators, was named on September 7, 1990, to direct the athletic program at Maryland by College Park President William E. Kirwan. Geiger assumed his new duties on October 1.

Geiger oversaw a renaissance of Stanford athletics. During his tenure, Stanford's 29-sport program won 27 national collegiate championships in 11 years, the most won by any NCAA Division One school. He also realigned the Stanford athletic program to dramatically increase fund-raising and to better external affairs. Stanford's on-field success was accomplished without sacrificing its place among the top academic schools.

At Maryland, Geiger directs a 23-sport program that has a proud history of having won more ACC titles than any school. He immediately will direct a $30 million refurbishment of College Park facilities, and will give priority to a study of departmental structure and policies, and continued improvement of academic performance by student-athletes.

Geiger, 51, has been an athletic administrator for 27 years. A 1961 graduate of Syracuse, he was Assistant Athletic Director there from 1964 to 1970. In 1970, he moved to the Eastern Collegiate Athletic conference as Assistant Commissioner. He was named Athletic Director at Brown University in 1972, and he moved to another Ivy League school, Pennsylvania, as Athletic Director in 1975. During his final year there, Pennsylvania became the last Ivy school to qualify for the Final Four of the NCAA Men's Basketball Championship.

Geiger was named Athletic Director at Stanford at the end of 1978. He guided the Cardinal to a position of athletic leadership in the PAC-10 Conference, and in addition to its NCAA team success, Stanford's athletes won 96 NCAA individual championships, also the most by any school.



Geiger was a member of the NCAA Division One Basketball Tournament Committee for six years, helping to initiate many of the dramatic advances in tournament structure. He also was a member of the NCAA Special Committee on Reorganization, and served as chair on several other committees—the NCAA Water Polo Committee, the PAC-10 Television Committee for 11 years, the Men's Administrative Committee of the Conference, and he founded and chaired the Committee on Championships. He also served on the PAC-10 Compliance Committee, and he chaired the E. C. A. C. Committee on Infractions when he was Associate Commissioner.

An oarsman at Syracuse, he competed in the 1959 Pan-American Games as a member of the U. S. team. He was a freshman crew coach at Dartmouth College, and later served as manager of the U. S. crew at the 1971 Pan-American Games and as secretary of the U. S. Olympic Rowing Committee.

Geiger knows of success when it comes to women's basketball. Stanford won the NCAA Division I championship in 1990.

Geiger has been married to the former Eleanor Rollings for 28 years. They have two children, Phillip and Gregory.

SUZANNE TYLER

When Maryland needed an interim athletic leader in July to direct the 23 sport Terrapin program it turned to a long-time member of its athletic family, Dr. Suzanne Tyler. She will serve until the arrival of new director Andy Geiger.

Dr. Tyler's success has been extraordinary on both the athletic and academic levels. She was serving as acting associate athletic director for six months prior to being named interim athletic director. She was in charge of the day-to-day operations of the department, and focused administratively on football and the men's and women's basketball programs. She was an assistant director of athletics for varsity sports from 1988 until her acting associate's role.

An honors graduate at each stage of her academic career—Northeastern undergrad in 1969, Master's degree from Penn State in 1972, and Ph.D. (Sports Psychology) from Maryland in 1986—Dr. Tyler is one of the few coaches in the nation to win NCAA championships in two different sports, field hockey (1987) and lacrosse (1986). She also performed the rare double of administrator-NCAA finalist when she was associate AD last spring, and coach of the Terrapin lacrosse team that went to the finals of the national championships. Her 1981 lacrosse team was also national champions.

Dr. Tyler has seen the rise of women's athletics at College Park, from 1973 when she wore the hats of teacher-coach-administrator in an embryonic program, until today when women's athletics enjoy national and campus prestige for accomplishments by its 11 sports.

She lives in nearby Beltsville with her husband, Dennis Casey, who is an administrator at Montgomery Community College in Rockville.

The University at College Park

The University of Maryland College Park is the cornerstone of the 11 school Maryland state system of four year colleges. Chartered in 1856, Maryland College Park is situated on a 1300 acre campus nine miles north of Washington, D.C., and in close proximity to Maryland's Capital of Annapolis and the state's largest city, Baltimore. Acres of lawns and tall shade trees accompany the 335 major buildings at Maryland College Park. It is one of the finest universities in the nation.

A charter member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, Maryland's athletic roots are in the old Southern Intercollegiate Conference that encompassed schools from the Deep South north to Maryland.

After that conference split up in 1932, Maryland joined with traditional Mid-Atlantic and Near South rivals to form the Southern Conference. In 1953, seven traditional rivals left that league to form the ACC. Maryland has been ACC football champions eight times.

From its pre-Civil War roots as the state's first agricultural college, and its designation soon after as one of America's original land grant institutions, to its officially mandated status in 1988 as the "flagship" institution of the state's 11-university system, the University of Maryland at College Park has emerged as one of the nation's foremost public institutions of higher education.

In such disciplines as engineering, computer science, physics, economics, and mathematics, College Park has attracted national and international recognition, placing it among the best of its peers. In the social sciences and humanities, in business and the arts, as well, the university has been widely acclaimed for the quality of its faculty and programs.

The 11th largest university in the United States, College Park undergraduate enrollment last year was 24,473. Its students pursue 122 majors for undergraduates and 88 programs for graduate students. Courses are taught by more than 2,000 full-time faculty, many of whom are internationally known scholars and researchers.

Over the past several years the average SAT scores of entering freshmen have soared to the highest in university history. As part of its commitment to enhancing undergraduate education, the university has reduced undergraduate enrollment, improved faculty-student ratios, raised admissions standards, revamped the honors program, strengthened advising, supported student research and encouraged numerous innovations in teaching. Along with the expanded emphasis on improving the learning environment for undergraduate students, the university has placed the highest priority on attracting more minority students and transforming the academic climate for women.

At the same time, the university attracts some of the nation's outstanding research scholars to its faculty. College Park ranks fourth in the nation in total federal research and development funding among public universities without a medical school, and the faculty has been awarded numerous Guggenheim, Sloan and Fulbright fellowships. In addition, since its' inception in 1984, the highly coveted National Science Foundation Presidential Young Investigator Award has gone to 17 younger College Park faculty members.

Home to dozens of specialized centers and institutes that focus on areas as diverse as global climate change, international security, advanced helicopter design, super computers, the ecology of the Chesapeake Bay, Renaissance and Baroque studies, and innovative approaches to systems engineering. College Park is a hub of research and academic activity for the state, the region and the nation.

It is also a leader in providing technical assistance to businesses and government agencies as well as a catalyst for technology transfer and economic development within the state. From agricultural economics and artificial intelligence to regional and urban planning and the training of tomorrow's teachers, the university is a rich source of expertise for meeting the needs of both the public and private sector.

On the eve of a new century, the University of Maryland at College Park looks forward to the year 2000 as an institution of vigor and vitality, committed to continuing its role of helping stimulate and strengthen the intellectual, economic and cultural well-being of the students and citizens it serves.

College Park Leadership

College Park is home of a variety of exceptional research facilities, including a computer vision laboratory; a full-scale low velocity wind tunnel, a 500 liter computer controlled fermentation system for research in bioprocess scale-up programs, the Center for Automation Research; and a quiescent plasma device (Q machine) for plasma research. Such major facilities as the Engineering Research Center, the Systems Research Center, and the new Center for Global Change conduct research that is especially significant to the state and the nation.

In the 1990's, College Park will be the home of one of the nation's most important research facilities—the 1.7 million square-foot, $205 million Second National Archives Building. It will house more than half the collection of the National Archives Records Administration, including some of the nation's most valuable historical documents. The building will be completed by 1993.

Terp Traditions

Testudo, a Diamondback Turtle whose name is derived from the scientific classification for turtle (testudines), is the mascot of the University of Maryland. Testudo's flight to become official mascot was (there is no other description) slow. But once on top, Testudo has reigned with a bronze-like grip, peering at generations of younger Terps crossing in front of, or entering, the Theodore R. McKeldin Library in the heart of the College Park campus. The 500 pound terrapin's days of roving to conquer rival campuses at the behest of the College Park student body are over, his undisturbed regal bearing insured by his being bolted to a concrete throne.

The need for a mascot was essential in the early 1920s in a world littered with Wildcats, Tigers, Devils, Wolves, Bears, and all sorts of traditional names derived from a half-century of college athletics. Maryland was consolidated from different state schools in 1920 to form the base of today's wide-ranging state system and it needed a flag-carrier to do battle with Wahoos, Lions, and Generals.

Dr. H.C. Byrd, the University President in 1922, recommended the Diamondback as mascot in response to the student newspaper's search for an "official" leader. Although his suggestion was, indeed, "official," there were some who resisted, opting for the older and historically entrenched term, Old-Liners. A label derived from the Revolutionary War when Maryland soldiers earned the accolade for bravery and perseverence in the face of British troops, Old-Liners had a more vocal lobby than the speechless turtle.

By 1935, however, the Yearbook had changed its name from Reveille to Terrapin by a vote of the student body, and save for some splintered resistance, Testudo's family had won. Newspapers, even then exploring every angle, shortened Terrapin to Terp, but Testudo by any name is still a turtle.

Samuel P. Gorham of Providence, R.I., cast Testudo in bronze at the request of the Class of 1933. He was modeled after a feisty Diamondback that came from Dr. Byrd's hometown of Crisfield. Dr. Byrd's choice of mascot was not intended to reflect the docility of Maryland teams. As a small boy near his home he surely found out what so many others have discovered about Terrapins —they bite.

Colors

The colors of the University of Maryland are those of the state flag—gold, red, black and white.

Maryland's flag bears the arms of the Calvert and Crossland families. Calvert was the family name of the Lords Baltimore who founded Maryland, and their colors of gold and black appear in the first and fourth quarters of the flag. Crossland was the family of the mother of George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore. The red and white Crossland colors, with a Greek cross terminating in the foils, appear in the second and third quarters. The flag was first flown in its present form October 25, 1888, at Gettysburg Battlefield for ceremonies dedicating monuments to Maryland regiments of the Army of the Potomac. It was officially adopted in 1904. Maryland law requires that if any ornament is affixed to the top of a flagstaff carrying the Maryland flag, the ornament must be a gold cross bottony.

Like the long trek of Testudo to become mascot, the trip for these colors to arrive as "official" was marked by factionalism. By the post World War II years, there was disgruntlement from the press and others that Maryland's football uniforms were difficult to read, and Old Gold and Black were deemed the colors, even though red had been an official color. By the time of Coach Jim Tatum's matchless era of success, which included a National Championship in 1953, the football team was back in red. Today's Maryland football teams incorporate all the colors of the state flag, although the predominate University of Maryland "fight" color is red.

MARYLAND
TERRAPINS

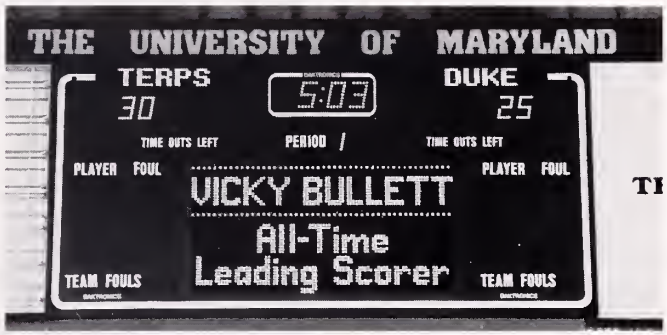
When college basketball was achieving its most explosive growth—from the late 1950s to the 1970s—there was one college gymnasium on the East Coast that sat as many as 12,000 fans. Cole Field House epitomized the new big time, main event status of college hoops, the sport of network TV and emerging legends. It stands today as a building that faces cosmetic renewal over the next several years, but Cole's charisma will not be tampered with; there was not a bad seat in the house on Dec. 2, 1955, when it was dedicated in a game against Virginia, and there is not a better place to watch a game today. Only in a building like Cole, where history has been routinely made, can the fan feel the echo of tradition, and experience, even in an empty Cole, the electricity generated by buzzer beaters and a thousand slam dunks.

Cole was dedicated as the Student Activities Center, a $3.3 million project that was erected under the tutelage of Board of Regents Chair, Judge William P. Cole, Jr., and President Wilson Elkins. A year after the dedication, the building was named in honor of Cole, who served the Board of Regents for 25 years.

Although Cole has remained the same basketball hall it was built to be, there have been refinements. Scoreboards were installed recently that will not only tell the fan what the score is, but also how loud they are cheering. Cole's seating also grew from its original base, and 14,500 fans can now root for the Red and White at any game.

As championships were awarded over the years, Cole got some of the very best. The 1966 and 1970 Men's Basketball Final Fours were held here. In 1991, first and second round NCAA games will be hosted. The NCAA Wrestling Championship was held here in 1960, 1972, 1978, 1987, and 1990, and the NCAA Women's Volleyball Championship is scheduled for Cole in December.

Cole Field House houses most of the athletic department offices, and yearly hosts thousands who visit just to see where so much hoop history has been made.



To look at Chris Weller's slate of achievements at the University of Maryland, one can see that she, without question, gets the job done.

During Weller's 15 seasons as head coach of the Terrapin women's basketball team, she has carved out one of the top programs in the nation. The Maryland graduate has led the Terps to the pinnacle of college basketball, the Final Four, on three occasions and to the championship of the Atlantic Coast Conference a record eight times.

Weller will continue to follow her high expectation approach to coaching again in 1991. Only two starters were lost from the 1990 team that advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament and defeated four teams ranked among the nations elite 25.

The Terps, ranked as high as 12th last season, are looking to continue their extraordinary string of being included among the list of the nations top teams. Only three times in the history of the poll have the Terps found themselves missing from the season ending top-20 rankings.

Weller seems to have the 1991 edition of the Tarrapins exactly where she wants them as the season approaches. Each returning player, save one, has gained experience as a starter and all played in atleast 12 games last season.

THE CENTERS

Replacing first team all-ACC and District III all-America Christy Winters at the post position will be no easy task, but Weller feels that it can be accomplished. A healthy Jessie Hicks and an improved Wendy Martin will team with recruits Monica Adams and Bonnie Rimkus to make-up a strong quartet.

Hicks, a sophomore, finished her initial campaign averaging 10.1 points and 4.9 rebounds per game. She recovered from a broken foot which she incurred early in the season to appear in 21 games. Hicks played for the East Team in the 1990 Olympic Festival, one of three Terps to have been selected to play in the festival.

Martin, entering her senior campaign, was voted the most improved player on the team following the 1990 season and has worked hard to improve her strength. Martin gained valuable playing time in the post, appearing in 16 games, and established herself a force in the paint as she blocked nine shots on the season.

Weller and her staff recruited two players to help the depth at the post position and their work paid off. Monica Adams, a 6-3 center, was a third team all-Oklahoma City selection as a senior despite missing most of the year with an injured leg. Rimkus, at 6-4 was an honorable mention all-America selection by USA Today as a senior at Carlynton High School. She scored a school-record 2,193 points during her four year varsity career.

THE GUARDS

The guard spots will consist of a formidable combination of players that will handle the ball coming up the court. The roster lists a number of players with the ability to accept the all important ball handling duties.

Senior Carla Holmes returns for her final campaign after averaging 10.8 points, 4.0 assists and 1.0 steals per game as a junior. Holmes joined two elite clubs as she eclipsed the 1000 points and 400 assist marks in 1990. In addition, Holmes played on the 1989 United States Junior National Team. Estelle Christy averaged 7.4 points and 2.4 rebounds during her initial campaign and returns for her second season with improved strength. She garnered the greatest amount of playing time among the freshman a year ago and made that time count. Against Tennessee, then ranked No. 1, she poured in 19 points. Christy was selected to participate in the 1990 Olympic Festival but minor knee surgery curtailed those plans.

Mary Barnes, a senior, is in her fourth year with the team and is looking to make her senior season her best. She has improved her outside shooting touch and will add a stabilizing dimension to the back court. In her second year, Monica Bennett has improved her strength and has the type of work ethic that will put her in position to challenge for playing time.

Though new to the Maryland program, freshman Aluma Goren may be the most experienced guard among the group. Goren played with the Israeli National the past five years. At 5-10, she is the tallest of the Terps fulltime guards and her ballhandling skills and international experience can only help the team.

Senior Carla Holmes, a pre-season all-ACC pick this year, will be a leader for the Terps both on and off the court.

Junior Sue Panek, shown here in the 1989 NCAA Tournament, will lend depth at the forward position this season.

Sophomore Estelle Christy, moving around a defender here against Tennessee, will add a spark to the Terp line-up in 1991.

THE FORWARDS

Subrena Rivers graduated, leaving the all important forward position to a junior and two sophomores. Rivers pulled down 7.1 rebounds each game in 1990 and finished her career as the fifth all-time rebounder in Maryland history. Despite the loss of Rivers, the team is stocked with capable forwards.

Junior Dafne Lee proved that she was capable of playing at the Division I level last season as she averaged 9.6 points and 5.1 rebounds. Lee participated on the gold medal winning East Team at the Olympic Festival last summer and was selected to be a member of the U. S. Junior National Team. The ever improving Lee scored a career high 39 points in an ACC game against Wake Forest last season. A mid-season knee injury put an abrupt end to the season of Sue Panek but she returned to the court at full strength when fall practice began. She averaged 3.1 points and 1.7 rebounds in 19 games. Sophomore Katrina Colleton, who was an alternate selection to the Olympic Festival, made her presence felt as she appeared in 22 games and pulled down 41 rebounds. Transfer Ana Marjanovic is quickly recovering from a knee injury and looks to be ready to contribute.

Maryland has its task defined. Weller must combine the returning experience with the up and coming players and youthful exuberance to from another nationally competitive Maryland women's basketball team.

Chris Weller's presence on the court in preceded by legend.

Before the opening tip opponents encounter her dozen NCAA and National Tournament appearances, eight ACC Championships and 13 Top Twenty rankings. She is in command, knowing implicitly what it takes to be successful.

Her talents color Maryland athletics. Few coaches have been at College Park longer, and none have been more successful over the past two decades. Her stature as an ambassador of both the state and university is enhanced by countless speaking engagements, clinics, and outreaches to charity.

She is a pioneer in women's athletics as coach and administrator, having seen the rise in commitment to Maryland basketball, from Title IX days of educating everyone about her sport, to today's national television appearances and media coverage.

Chris Weller's teams hit the court enhanced by the her legend. Preparation is thorough, the schedule challenging, and she guards the right to Maryland's fight color of red to those who will fight to wear it.

Weller is an impact coach. Her first team at Maryland recorded a 20-4 record in 1975-1976; the next year she took the Terps to a national ranking of 13th. Her third year of being a head college coach brought an ACC Championship, and number two national ranking. She has not slowed her output, her will to succeed enough to energize more ACC championships than any coach, and a career record of 311-126.

Three times Weller's Terps have gone to the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament, the last appearance in 1989. The team was 29-3, ranked fifth in the nation, and was ACC Champions; the coach was named ACC Coach of the Year and National Coach of the Year by the American Sports Women's Foundation. She coached the U.S. Select Team in 1986, and served on the coaching staff of the 1986 U.S. entrant that won the international Jones Cup championship in Taiwan. She was a member of the U.S. Olympic Selection Committee, has served on the Kodak All-American Selection Committee, and is a member of the WBCA Legislative Committee.

Weller's investment in Maryland began in 1962 when she matriculated as an undergraduate. She was a four-year varsity performer in basketball, playing for an important mentor, Coach Dottie McKnight. She was also a swimmer and played on the University's first women's lacrosse team. Following graduation she moved close-by to coach at Silver Spring's John F. Kennedy High School. There she taught and coached the basketball, tennis, track and lacrosse teams.

Returning in 1973 for a Master's degree, she was named an assistant basketball coach. Two years later she was her own boss, directing the Terps to basketball success, and until 1980, serving as the athletic department's primary women's administrator.

Weller imparts her will to succeed 12 months a year. During the summer, when she is not following team members to Olympic Festivals or giving yet another clinic in front of her coaching peers, she runs a camp program that attracts hundreds of young basketball hopefuls from elementary and high schools throughout Maryland and surrounding states. There the very young get everything Chris Weller can do to make them better basketball players, and to impart self-discipline.

Her legend, and work ethic precede her everywhere.

Belinda "Boe" Pearman
Assistant Coach

Boe Pearman enters her sixth season as an assistant coach to Chris Weller. Pearman serves as the coordinator of recruiting and is the chief scout for the Terrapins.

Pearman finished a four-year standout career at Maryland in 1984 with her name prominently etched in the Maryland recordbooks. She ranks 11th in scoring with 1,284 career points and 12th in rebounding with 531. In addition, she coached fire of the top ten all-time scoring leaders and four of the all-time leading rebounders.

She earned her bachelor's degree in Recreation in 1985 and immediately began her successful coaching career. Pearman served as the head varsity coach at Regina High School in Hyattsville, MD and directed it to its best season in the Maryland area Catholic League. While coaching at Regina she was able to successfully combine her academic endeavors and her coaching ideas. Pearman completed the requirements for her degree and defeated the No. 1 ranked team in the Catholic League during the season.

Pearman is originally from Hagerstown, Md. She was an all-America at South Hagerstown High School. She also earned letters in volleyball and track. While at South Hagerstown, she set school and state records in the high jump.

In addition to her coaching and recruiting responsibilities, Pearman is the director of Head Coach Chris Weller's Basketball Camp.

Tara Heiss
Assistant Coach

Tara Heiss begins her first year as full time assistant on the Maryland staff after serving as volunteer assistant during the past five seasons. Heiss works with the Terrapin guards and handles administrative duties in the women's basketball office.

Heiss began Maryland's Olympic tradition as she was selected to represent the United States in the 1980 Olympic Games. Prior to earning a birth on the Olympic squad, she was the first Terp to play internationally as she played for the U.S. Select Team in 1978 and the World University and Pan American Games in 1979.

A four-year letterwinner at Maryland, Heiss currently ranks ninth on the all-time list of leading scorers with 1,350 points. She also holds a number of team records: most assists in a season (249), most assists in a single game (17), and field goals attempted in a game (30).

The Terrapins recorded a 75-20 record during her tenure and advanced to the championship game of the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for women (AIAW) Tournament her senior season. The Terrapins played in the AIAW Tournament during three of Heiss' four years on the team.

Heiss led Maryland to the first ever championship of the Atlantic Coast Conference in 1978 and was voted the most valuable player of the inaugural tournament, also, that year. The 1978 team holds the Maryland record for most points scored, 2,780, in one season.

Heiss earned her degree in Physical Education from Maryland in 1978.

Tara Heiss (l.) and Boe Pearman, Maryland assistants.

Terrapin Support

The creation of the Academic Support Unit at Maryland puts the University's commitment to the student-athlete front and center. It is important to the University that each student-athlete grow academically and graduate, and to that end Academic Support has as large a presence as any sport program in the athletic department.

Dr. Gerald Gurney, Associate Athletic Director for Academic Support, oversees a program of intensive assessment, skill development and counseling that is offered to each student-athlete. Academic Support offers a comprehensive program for personal and academic development that includes the following:

* Personal academic career assessment
* Tutoring
* Supervised study
* Learning skill programs
* Academic monitoring
* Computer training and usage
* Career mentorship
* Summer internships
* Career awareness programs and job hunting

Dr. Gurney joined Maryland in 1987 after tenures at Southern Methodist and Iowa State, institutions which were lauded for their nationally recognized academic support programs. Dr. Gurney earned his Ph.D. in higher education administration from Iowa State in 1980. He holds a master's degree in counseling and student personnel work, and a bachelor of science in English education, both from Ohio State University.

Working with him is a distinguished staff that includes:

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston coordinates the development services arm of the Unit, organizing the student-athlete orientation, drug education and career programs. A licensed clinical psychologist. Dr. Adams-Gaston also coordinates the various counseling programs offered. She received her Ph.D. in counseling psychology from Iowa State in 1983.

John Bowman is coordinator of academic counseling, and he directs the monitoring of student-athlete progress. In following each student-athlete's progress toward a degree, he makes use of his 19 years of campus knowledge acquired as an academic advisor at College Park. Bowman received a M.A. degree in education from Case Western Reserve University in 1976.

Milvia Sadler, a counselor in the Academic Support Unit, coordinates student-athlete study sessions, tutoring schedules and the bookroom. Sadler has her master's in counselor education from Penn State and a bachelor of arts in psychology from North Carolina.

The Academic Support Unit also operates a full-function computer room, which is available to all student-athletes. Among his duties in the Unit, Guy Hays monitors the computer lab.

The ASU also handles the increasing flow of paperwork which accompanies certification, student services, housing, financial aid and the like. Hays coordinates these services for the Unit.

In general, the resources of the University of Maryland's Academic Support Unit are second to none among the nation's university athletic departments.
